

Dia de Los Muertos Beauty is What You Make It Urban Snow Days (clockwise from left)

Sarah Allison Ghan

In life, I have learned to never underestimate what art can be. Through these photographs, I hope to inspire other artists and society in general to pay attention to details hidden in different forms of beauty. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, as well as any analysis that should follow. You gaze, you think, and feel enlightened.