LAMENTATIONS (from Night Letter by Stanley Kunitz)

Hana Weatherly

I try to write
        after the wound
and heard the dead
        lying upon the twentieth century
        disgraced
and
        bloodied
                addressed to history.
